Become a member of the Inland Chapter Board.

Many of the present board members have been serving the chapter for many years. We need new members to step forward and help serve on the Board. Please look seriously at finding time to help us out and be a part of making "being green" fun and desirable. We have plenty of ideas and opportunities to make a difference in our communities, but with limited support, we can achieve only so much. Please consider helping out with your organization. Call or email Tom Angell, tom@tomangell.com or 747-7647 Let him know you would like to join the Board.

Kelly Learner—One World Design

For those who missed it...October

“Shades of Green” Lecture featuring Kelly Learner architect, Lauren Hall, WSU student, working w/ LEED for homes pilot, and Don Stephens alternative builder pioneer.

Highlights of the speakers: Kelly Learner discussed her book “Natural Remodeling”, Lauren Hall, WSU student, discussed pilot LEED residential programs for Eastern Washington. Don Stephens discussed experimental building materials such, as tire shingles and cob construction. It was a very informational, hopeful, progressive thinking evening of lectures —those who weren’t able to attend truly missed out.

Don Stephens—Eco building pioneer

Lauren Hall—WSU student and LEED for homes pilot pioneer

For those who missed it...November

SNAP’s Living Green program was presented on making choices in our day to day lives that reduce our impact on the environment and moves us in the direction of a healthy, ecologically sound, economically viable and socially just lifestyle.

Share the Warmth for the Holidays

Give the gift of warmth and those in financial need this winter!

Simply Northwest and Craven's Coffee, together with Avista Utilities, is offering special holiday "Share the Warmth" gifts. A portion of each purchase benefits Project Share, a community funded program that helps families in need pay their energy bills. So as you enjoy the warmth of the holiday season, you're helping someone else stay warm too.
